INTERNATIONAL APPEAL

The movie has been adapted from a much beloved series of classical books and brought to screen by a talented team of experienced filmmakers and actors. The result is a feel-good family adventure that will capture the hearts of children and their parents around the globe!

The setting for the movie is the same authentic small village in Northern Holland and the story is one with strong universal appeal that audiences everywhere can relate to.

If the project is realized, the village would lose the windmill, its symbol for many years. It will lose its heart – the locals are never short of something to do or somebody to visit.

But more importantly, many poor farmers will have to uproot and leave, among them the very ill Marieke who lives with her mother. They have only just settled in the village, convinced that their future comfort was guaranteed.

Twin brothers Sietse and Hielke Klinkhamer are friends of the pair and are increasingly worried about the situation. Marieke's illness is so severe that the only place she can receive treatment is in a specialized Swiss clinic – but her mother does not have the money to pay for this.

THE STORY SO FAR...

Our young heroes Hielke and Sietse Klinkhamer are identical twin boys, about 14 years old, who became the proud owners of their own speedboat.

Because the boat is painted into a rainbow of colors that seem to change each time they look at it, it is called Chameleon.

In the preceding movie, "The Skippers of the Kameleon", we learn how the boys became the new town heroes when delivering a band of criminals into the hands of the police.

In "Kameleon 2", Hielke and Sietse will experience their biggest adventure ever!

So the twins plan to raise enough money to pay for Marieke's treatment. At the same time, together with their father and the people of the village, they fight to prevent the destruction of their village. But will they succeed on either front?

KAMELEON 2

Plans to build a new road through the traditional Dutch village of Lente threaten the peace of mind of a community that is desperately anxious to retain its very comfortable status quo.
